Radiologic Technology is an official scholarly journal of the ASRT. Published continuously since 1929, this award-winning bimonthly (six issues per year) peer-reviewed journal covers all disciplines and specialties within medical imaging. Radiologic Technology is the comprehensive publication for the professional radiologic technologist. A subscription includes online access and the printed journal.

Radiation Therapist is the only publication devoted exclusively to radiation therapy professionals. This peer-reviewed journal focuses on the technical aspects of radiation therapy and medical dosimetry as well as professional issues such as certification and the entry-level standard. Radiation Therapist is published twice annually, in the spring and fall, and is available in print only.
